Growing Old?

A recent analysis of achievements of four hundred famous men throughout history, men whose accomplishments came in the fields of politics, government, painting, military life, writing and other categories, is highly encouraging to all those who think they are growing old.

The study revealed that more than one-third of the four hundred famous men achieved their greatest accomplishments after they passed the age of sixty. Another surprising twenty-three per cent scored their greatest success in life after they had passed the age of seventy.

Tears Will Tell

The day may not be far off when you go to the doctor and he will ask you to cry. If you are feeling bad enough when you go, this may not be too difficult, but if you are only there for a routine checkup, it may be a little sticky.

The reason? At Stamford University Medical School, doctors have found that a person's tears sometimes provide valuable information on his physical ailments.

Dr. Oliver P. Erickson says there are several chemicals in human tears. They change in accordance with changes in our physical condition.

For example, the tears from the eyes of someone suffering from rheumatic fever, and those from one who is suffering great stress, are quite different.

The Simple Life

The simple life is one which commends itself in many ways. All of us have noticed among us, from time to time, good citizens content to lead a simple life, with modest income, and derive satisfaction and fulfillment from simple things.

A news story from Pittsburgh reminded us of our thoughts along this line recently. It seems that for thirty-eight years Roy Anderson had been running a street car. At his retirement day, his nose had a street car decorated gaily and it was driven for several hours through the streets of Pittsburgh on a Sunday with Roy Anderson and all his friends and family aboard. It was a farewell ride, so to speak. Anderson recalled that he had met his wife on a street car, back in 1922. She says he always made her pay for the rides, but he added that they had had lots of time to talk in those days, when he was a motorman.

Anderson, reflecting, says he is entirely satisfied with his career, which included thirty-eight years as a street car motorman and conductor. No

Read Romans 6:12-18

After the petals had dropped from the blossoms of the young cherry tree in my garden, I watched the tender leaves unfold their shy newness. A delicate white substance covered the end of one branch. Hastily, I pulled the web away and destroyed the tent caterpillars inside before they devoured the leaves. The crumpled leaves soon opened and grew healthy in the fresh air and sunlight.

My less fortunate neighbors had been besieged by the pests. The leaves on their young trees were destroyed by the caterpillars. The year's harvest was lost and many of the trees were seriously damaged.

As tent caterpillars eat the leaves and beauty out of a tree, underneath the damage to the personality and character of a man. When we live close to Christ, we detect each unworthiness as it arises, and the ugliness can be plucked away before much damage is done.

PRAYER

Dear God, Creator of all living things, help me to guard my body so that it will be a living temple. Guide my growth in Christian love. Whatever talents Thou hast given me, help me to preserve them against the destructive power of evil and develop them to Thy honor and glory. For the Master's sake. Amen.

SAFETY Sayings—

Weather defines sentiment as being influenced by tender feelings of an emotional nature. Sentiment is one of the strong drives in the lives of people. We are sentimental about our religion, our families, our country and our friends. We express our feelings in many ways. The church, the home, the flag and friendships are symbols of our outward expression of sentiment. We send get well cards, we go home for Christmas, we get goose pimples when we hear the Star Spangled Banner, and we suffer when others suffer.

When people need help we want to help. A nation we are more proud of our efforts to help people of other sections of the world than we are of our efforts to harm them.

The sentimental drive recently was given international outlet in Georgia at Jekyll Island. When Governor Griffin issued his spontaneous invitation to the Nova Scotia miners who had by a miracle been rescued from death, the world cheered. The people of Georgia were especially proud of this act of sentiment on the part of our governor. He spoke for us when he said, "I call come to Georgia and rest up for a spell."

So they came and the red carpet was rolled out for these men and their families. Our Jekyll Island formed the backdrop for an expression of sentiment that was clean as it severs the boundary lines between nations. Nothing so surely binds as a sharing of happiness and sorrow. Each of these emotions was present at Jekyll as these twelve coal miners, whose graves had been dug, stepped from buses in front of a battery of television and newspaper cameras, photographers, and press representatives. The expression of our sentiment was recorded in every way possible and relayed to the world.

We are proud of Jekyll Island. The modern hotels, hotels, restaurants, swimming pools and golf courses blend into a natural setting of state-of-the-art scenery. The beautiful beaches of white sand make surf bathing a real treat.

The two hundred twenty-five years of Jekyll Island's history reached a climax in 1958. Discovered by Oglethorpe in 1733 and owned by his English friends, the island next was owned by Christopher de Bignon. Then the Rockefellers, Vanderbilts, Goulds and Morgans acquired the small paradise. Now we, the sentimental people of Georgia, own it. I personally am glad it was ready to speak for us to the miners of Nova Scotia.

Perhaps it is sentiment that really makes the world go round.

FIRST MISTAKE

The original mistake was in inventing the calendar. This led, in due course, to having Mondays—

EVERGREEN CLUB

The Evergreen Garden Club met on Thursday, November 20, at 2:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Jean Howard at which Mrs. Charlotte Anderson was co-hostess.

The hostesses served cake topped with whipped cream and coffee. A beautiful arrangement of chrysanthemums was on the dining table and another on the coffee table.

Bill Holloway of the Statesboro Floral Shop was presented to the club as guest speaker by Mrs. Billy Brown. He showed wonderful slides on arrangements for the Christmas season to be used on doors, mantles and tables and named the materials used. He then made three arrangements for the members to examine and study.

Mrs. Billy Brown, president, presided over the business session following the program. It was decided to change the regular meeting time from 4:00 to 3:30. Every-one drew names for the Christmas Party and each member was asked to bring an arrangement of her own originality, either dried or living, to be judged. A prize will be given for the best arrangement.

Mrs. Peggy Herrington read a letter from the Mr. and Mrs. Garden Club asking that the Evergreen Garden Club enter an arrangement at their camellia show in December sponsored by the American Camellia Society to be held at the Recreation Center.

There were twenty-two members and one guest, Mrs. Sara Thigpen, present.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, December 12, at the home of Mrs. Hal Waters with the theme of "White and Yellow Chrysanthemums."

Home made chocolate pie, coffee and double nut were served. High score went to Mrs. Percy Bland, a double deck of cards; for low, Mrs. Harvey Brannen won a jeweled bridge bell and cut, Mrs. E. L. Barnes. The honorees were each presented Quilts.

Flower hand lotion.

Guests invited were, Mrs. Al Sutherland, Mrs. Harold Nightingale, Mrs. Aubrey Brown, Mrs. Percy Bland, Mrs. Alfred Dorman, Mrs. W. M. McCroon, Mrs. Harvey Brannen, Mrs. Louis Ellis, Mrs. A. T. Ansley, Mrs. Cliff Bradley, Mrs. C. B. Mathews, and Mrs. Lawson Mitchell.

COFFEE HONOR VISITORS

Mrs. Lawson Mitchell was hostess at a Morning Coffee Wednesday at her home on North Main Street, complementing Mrs. Al Sutherland's guests, Mrs. Harold Nightingale and Mrs. Aubrey Brown of Brookhaven, Mass. Each chicken salad sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served. Her guests were, Mrs. Sutherland and the co-hostesses, Mrs. John Strickland, Mrs. R. M. McCroon, Mrs. Ed Nabers, Mrs. G. E. Siler, Mrs. Dan Strams, Mrs. J. Brantley Johnson, Sr. and Mrs. Dan Lester. Mrs. Mitchell presented the guest of honor, lovely fall flowers to be worn on coats.

TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

The Tuesday Bridge Club was delightfully entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. H. P. Jones, at her home, where beautiful chocolate pound cake with cream and nuts and coffee were served.

Mrs. Harry Smith with high score, Mrs. Arthur Turner with low and Mrs. Dan Lester with cut, each were given lovely party aprons made by Mrs. Beth. Other players were, Mrs. Alfred Dorman, Mrs. Horace Smith, Mrs. Olin Smith, Mrs. C. B. Mathews, Mrs. Charles Olliff, Sr., Mrs. J. H. Brett and Mrs. E. L. Barnes.

P. M. BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Johnny Deal was hostess to the P. M. Bridge Club and a few other friends on Thursday at her home on Donohoe Street, where a dried arrangement in gold was used in the foyer to decorate, and in the living and dining rooms yellow chrysanthemums. Tango salad, chicken salad sandwiches, potato chips, cake and coffee were served.

For visitors high, Mrs. Donald

News of the Farm Bureau

(By Roy Powell, County Agent)
Small Grains Seed

This has been an unusually good crop year and record yields have been made on nearly all crops. But we still have a long way to go in this county before we are any where near our potential crop production per acre. This is especially true of small grains production. I believe the record will show that farmers are planting more low quality small grain seed than any other crop.

In too many cases, the initial cost of a bushel of small grain seed determines the kind a farmer buys. Other factors, even more important than price should be considered too. When buying small grain seed, you should check to find out if the variety is recommended and whether or not it is disease resistant. You should also know the noxious weed content of the lot you buy. Finally, you should know if the germination is 70 or 90 percent.

Use of seed that doesn't measure up in any of these ways can wipe out the small savings realized in the initial purchase of "cheap" seed. For example, our experiment stations have found that in many cases the variety alone determines whether the crop is a success or failure. And I am sure all of you know farmers who have spent $50 to $100 an acre trying to wipe out some noxious weeds that they bought in "cheap" small grain seed.

Harvey C. Lowery, Extension seed marketing specialist, tells me that the certified small grain seed available is not selling as it should because farmers are buying the cheapest seed available. I am not in the seed selling business myself, but I do want to point out that seed certification standards have been developed to protect the farmer and he buys at his own risk when he buys seed that does not bear the Certified Seed Tag.

(Now to continue my emphasis upon the Six Step Extension Forestry program are these comments upon step 4.)

Diversified Utilization

Everyone remembers that the on-crop system of cotton farming proved unsound with the advent of the boll weevil and other adversity. Farmers then began to diversify. Diversification is also highly recommended for forest crops.

Most woodland owners would like to obtain the most money per acre per year from all their forest land. This might be accomplished through Diversified Utilization.

Woodland owners might plan to grow one or two high-quality forest products. In the process, through thinning and improvement cuts, produce several other marketable products. When any tree is to be removed, the most profitable use should be determined, and then the tree should be sold accordingly.

Diversified forest utilization should provide the woodland owner with income throughout the life of the stand. Early thinning may remove trees to be sold or used as fence posts. As the stand grows, thinning may be sold as the seed, small sawtimber, or poles. High quality sawtimber or poles might be the end product in a rotation of this type. Valuable veneer bolts might be the final objective in hardwood stands.

In South Georgia, natural stores provide additional income from the timber with little or no loss in volume of quality of other products to be cut from the tree.

There are many products to be considered, such as shuttle block material, handle stock, charcoal, and many others. Some products may not have a local market, but all possibilities should be investigated.

STAR PROGRAM ENDORSED BY GEORGIA'S TEACHER OF THE YEAR—Mrs. Grady Massey, of Valdosta, Georgia's 1958 Teacher of the Year, inspects recent pamphlet on the new Student Achievement Recognition (STAR) program and tells Valdosta High students details of the program. STAR students will be determined by scores they make on the annual College Board Scholastic aptitude test. Each student so honored will name a STAR teacher who has contributed most toward helping his achievement. STAR students and STAR teachers for this area are to be determined early in 1959 by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, state-wide sponsor of the program. The group includes, left to right, standing Jack Taylor, John Porter and Kenneth Merrill, and seated, Geraldine McLane and Mrs. Massey.

Extension Forestry Program

(By Roy Powell, County Agent)

TIMBER HARVESTING

Step No. 5 in the Extension Forestry program is timber harvesting. For it is in Good Harvesting Practices that the payoff comes. The whole idea is for you to be sure that in your harvesting operations you are cutting for a minimum return and are not cutting down your potential profits.

Speaking of cutting, I'd like to point out that two of the best ways we have for producing timber are an axe and a saw. They must be properly used, however. Poor harvesting practices are hindering timber growth on much of our forest land.

Too many landowners cut too heavily when harvesting timber. It is very important to maintain a sufficient volume of growing stock. We can't produce plywood and lumber without trees any more than we can produce eggs without hens. A recent survey of Georgia's woods shows that the average acre contains only seven cords of growing stock. This is less than half enough for good production.

Our American heritage includes observation, long ago, of a day of good harvest after a time of extreme hardship. As we continued this observation last week all of us were especially grateful for an abundance of food that would have seemed fantastic to the Pilgrim Fathers.

MIDDLEGROUND 4-H CLUB
MET NOVEMBER 12th
(By Wynne Marsh)

The Middleground 4-H Club held their regular monthly meeting at the Middleground School on November 12. The meeting was called to order by the president, Roy Heasley. The program was then turned over to the program chairman, Linda Heasley, who read the devotion and led the club in the Lord's prayer. The pledges to the group were made, after which the group was led in singing by Wanda Merriman, Mary Williams and Jewel Mills.

Extension agents attending were Mrs. Gertrude Gear and Jones Peebles. Mrs. Gear gave a demonstration on wiring a light cord.

HOGS, BROILERS TO INCREASE

"Fourteen percent more hogs and 10 percent more broilers will place increases expected in most classes of livestock in every major section of the county during the next 12 months. Increased supplies of high protein feed and abundance of grains and milfeeds will be more than ample for these birds and animals."

So says the Feed Survey Committee of the American Feed Manufacturers Association after meeting with local feeders.

Officers and project leaders were installed for the coming year. Officers installed were: President, Mrs. C. H. Bird; vice-president, Mrs. E. L. Womack; secretary, Mrs. Luke Hendrix; treasurer, Mrs. A. V. Winney; and reporter, Mrs. J. E. Rowland Jr.

Mrs. C. J. Fields won a brass watch basket as a door prize. The winner was determined by a yellow ribbon tied to her chair.

Crop Production Hits Record High

Farmers of the Nation this year have apparently turned in an all-time record in the production of 59 leading crops, according to information received at the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

The October crop report of U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that production of leading crops this year will exceed the 1947-49 average by 17 percent. The yield per acre for the same group of crops is estimated at 72 per cent above the 1947-49 average. Among the major crop groups, feed production is up 31 per cent from 1947-49; food grains, up 17 percent; hay and forage, up 22 percent; sugar crops, up 22 percent; and oil crops, up 82 percent. Cotton, vegetable crops and tobacco show below average production, caused by acreage reduction.

ing for two days in Chicago at the end of October. Twenty-four college and experiment station men from all parts of the country comprise this committee. Last year their report was accurate within two percent of actual feed use.

This committee also expects 5 percent more turkeys, 4 percent more sheep and lambs, and 3 percent more beef cattle and layers for next year. Declines of 2 percent for dairy cows (but the same amount of milk), 4 percent for horses and mules, and 6 percent for other chickens raised for replacement, are anticipated.

PLENTY OF FEED AVAILABLE

At estimated rates of feeding, nearly 130 million tons of grains, oilseed meals and other concentrates will be consumed during 1958-59, says the committee. This compares with estimated supplies available for feed of 186 million tons -- an excess of 44 percent. Grain supplies exceed feed requirements by nearly 50 percent while high proteins are in excess about 10 percent.

The committee's estimates are realistic, the 1958-59 period will be the third year of expansion in the current cycle. It will provide consumers with one of the largest total supplies of meat, milk, eggs and other livestock products ever experienced.

Local Motel's New Addition

Expansion of the Crossroads Motel in Statesboro is underway as Buford W. Knight, owner, begins a new, $150,000 building program.

Property for the expansion, adjacent to the motel at the junction of U. S. 301, U. S. 25 and U. S. 80 was purchased from Mrs. Aaron Cone. The work is scheduled for completion by March, 1959. Levy and Kline, of Savannah, are the architects.

Twenty new rooms will offer luxurious accommodations to travelers, including TV and telephones in each, 100 percent air conditioning, central heat with individual room controls. Crossroads just this summer installed a 50-foot swimming pool.

There is an old saying about the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker . . . .

and it has to do with every man to his own field.

that you will want to see a banker; if you're sick, then it's a doctor you want to use. And in a similar manner . . . .

IF IT'S PRINTING YOU NEED

then go to a concern or to people who have an investment in and earn their livelihood from the printing business.

QUESTION PLEASE ? ?

The next time you have an opportunity to place an order for printing or for office supplies, won't you stop long enough to see if you can get an answer to these questions that will make the placing of the order honest and fair to all concerned?

1. Is this his principle line of business in which he holds an investment in YOUR community?
2. Is he or does he represent a printing firm in the true sense of the word employing craftsman and equipment designed to give first quality workmanship created in his plant?
3. Can you call on him to give newspaper space as a public service to support your community projects?
4. Does he pay wages to a force of employees who make this community their home and who help support it, its government, its institutions and businesses?
5. Does he pay taxes to help support and build your community?

FOR THE RECORD

We lay no claim to being the finest experts in the field.
Neither do we feel that we are to be classed with the novice since the total experience represented by our employees runs well over the century mark—experience that means "know-how" and

Local Students Are Pledges

The thirteen national social fraternities at Emory University received 288 new pledges recently during the Sunday afternoon
"walk around the row." Under this traditional plan, each rusher walks through the semi-circle of chapter houses, and turns in at the fraternity of his choice.

For the first time at Emory, fraternity rush activities were combined with orientation week, and were completed before the beginning of classes. This new plan, combined with the 1958 rush program, was called "A tremendous success" by Dan Hopkins, interfraternity council president.

Local students pledging are:
Jackson Proctor, Brooklet, Sigma
Chi, and Robert Edgar Snyder, Jr., Brooklet, Alpha Tau Omega.
